Crosslinks is an evangelical mission agency working largely within the Anglican Communion. In Partnership with the Church in Africa, Asia and Europe, it provides personnel, sponsors students and makes grants for capital and other projects.

Registered Charity No 249986

What's the need?

The church in many parts of the world is growing rapidly. Out of necessity many untrained men and women are sent to serve their communities or teach the Word of God to congregations at newly planted churches or established ones where they have no pastor or leader.

Congregations who are hungry for the Word of God often receive limited bible teaching, leaving them open to error or to remain immature as Christians. Many dioceses are too poor to pay enough money for men and women to have theological training or to be trained in community health and development.

Why the bursary scheme?

To help meet this need for training, Crosslinks primarily provides bursaries for students who come from parts of the world where there is great economic or political need. Priority of sponsorship is given to students who are accepted into evangelical theological colleges, bible schools and universities in their own or near country.

Students are recommended by their diocese or educational institution and most will be used as pastors or leaders at grass roots level in their community after gaining degrees or on completion of foundation courses. Some students train for higher degrees in order to fill key positions in their diocese.

How can you help?

By sponsoring students through our BEST programme. Money you give us will go towards their training fees which we pay the college on the students' behalf. Each student and their diocese are requested to pay what they can towards personal allowances and medical fees. We can link you with one of these students so that you can be informed of their progress.

Why Peter Chuma Muhia?

Following his personal commitment to Jesus at the age of 25 Peter became active within his church on various evangelistic missions. He feels a strong call as an evangelist and the previous training that he has received has given him boldness in the areas of evangelism and discipleship.

Peter has been a serving member of the Kenyan army since 1992. He has a particular desire to use his evangelistic gift to serve military officers, their families and their friends. He has a recognised role as the Centre leader for evangelism in his garrison and has already been involved in training other evangelists and pastors.

This special ministry has the potential for reaching thousands of soldiers and their families with the gospel, and Peter recognises the need to be further equipped for this work. He started a three year Higher Diploma in Theology course at Carlile College, Nairobi, Kenya in September 2006. After training will be a military catechist.

Peter is married to Carolyne and they have three children; Stacey (9 years), Daniel (4 years) and Stella (2 years).
